

Durga Pujo Event Sponsorship Package

Durga Pujo

Bengali Association of South Florida (BASFL) is organizing Durga Pujo 2010 on Saturday, Oct 16th, and Sunday, Oct 17th, 2010. Durga Pujo / Dusserah is one of the largest and popular festival of India. Durga Puja is widely celebrated in West Bengal, Bihar, Jharkhand, Orissa and Tripura where it is a five-day annual holiday. Not only it is the biggest Hindu festival celebrated throughout the State, but also the most significant socio-cultural event in Bengali society. Apart from Eastern part of India, Durga Puja is also celebrated in Delhi, Maharashtra, Gujarat, Punjab, Kashmir, Karnataka and Kerala. Durga Puja is also celebrated as a major festival in Nepal and Bangladesh. Non-residential Bengali cultural organizations arrange Durga Pujo all over the World. In 2006, a grand Durga Pujo ceremony was held in the Great Court of the British Museum.

Durga Pujo in South Florida

The Bengali community has long roots in south Florida dating back to 1968 when immigrants came to South Florida from India as students for their higher studies in local Universities. In 1990, people from the Bengali community formed an association to promote Bengali Culture in South Florida.

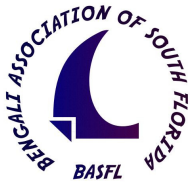

High Purchasing Power, Strong Interests

BASFL is an extremely affluent community, with yearly incomes ranging from $50,000 to $500,000. Its highly placed members possess high purchasing power and have strong interests in investments, real estates, cultural shows, traveling, touring, consumer durables, electronics, cars etc. Almost 50% of the community travel to India (mostly Kolkata) every year, and almost every family spends in vacations to resorts each year, share markets, and entertainment. Here is a potential market that sellers of these goods and services would profit well by tapping into.
